

Quito | A Capital City High In The Andes With Its Markets

The Ecuadorian capital lies dramatically between the beautiful mountains of the Andes. Experience the relaxed culture of the locals, their lively markets and the delicious food.

Day - 3 Quito

QUITO: OTAVALO & CUICOCHA (B, L, D)

Today, take a day trip to the north to Otavalo, which is known for its colorful market. En-route stop at Calderón. This place is known for its typical colorful salt figurines (bread babies), which you can buy as a souvenir. In Otavalo itself, you have enough time to discover the many goods in the market zone and to buy your first souvenirs. Do not forget to bargain! At lunchtime, enjoy your typical Almuerzo lunch in a small local restaurant before heading to Cuicocha Lagoon. These can be admired on a walk from different angles or (optionally) take a small boat trip on the lagoon. In the late afternoon you drive back to Quito to your hotel where you have some time for yourself before being driven by a driver for dinner in a restaurant with a view over the city.
